Evidence for Criteria 2.3 - Best Practices

The following are a few evidences for the Best Practises followed by me at the department of English.

My regular teaching methodology is blended learning through the use of Cooperative Learning Strategies in class.

TEACHING LEARNING PROCESSES

Course title – Understanding Poetry and Drama – Here is a video of a CLS used in class, along with pictures.

In the above class, an in-class activity had been scheduled, after which formative was administered to check for lacunae and reinforce learning.

Fig E – Google Classroom Classwork assigned as out-of-class work/formative assessment

The above screengrab (Fig E) delineates the work assigned to the students to reinforce learning, practise essay/SAQ's etc and provide information to me about learning gaps, which I use to reconstruct following classes.

Out of class activities are given to drive instruction within classroom and out of it as well.

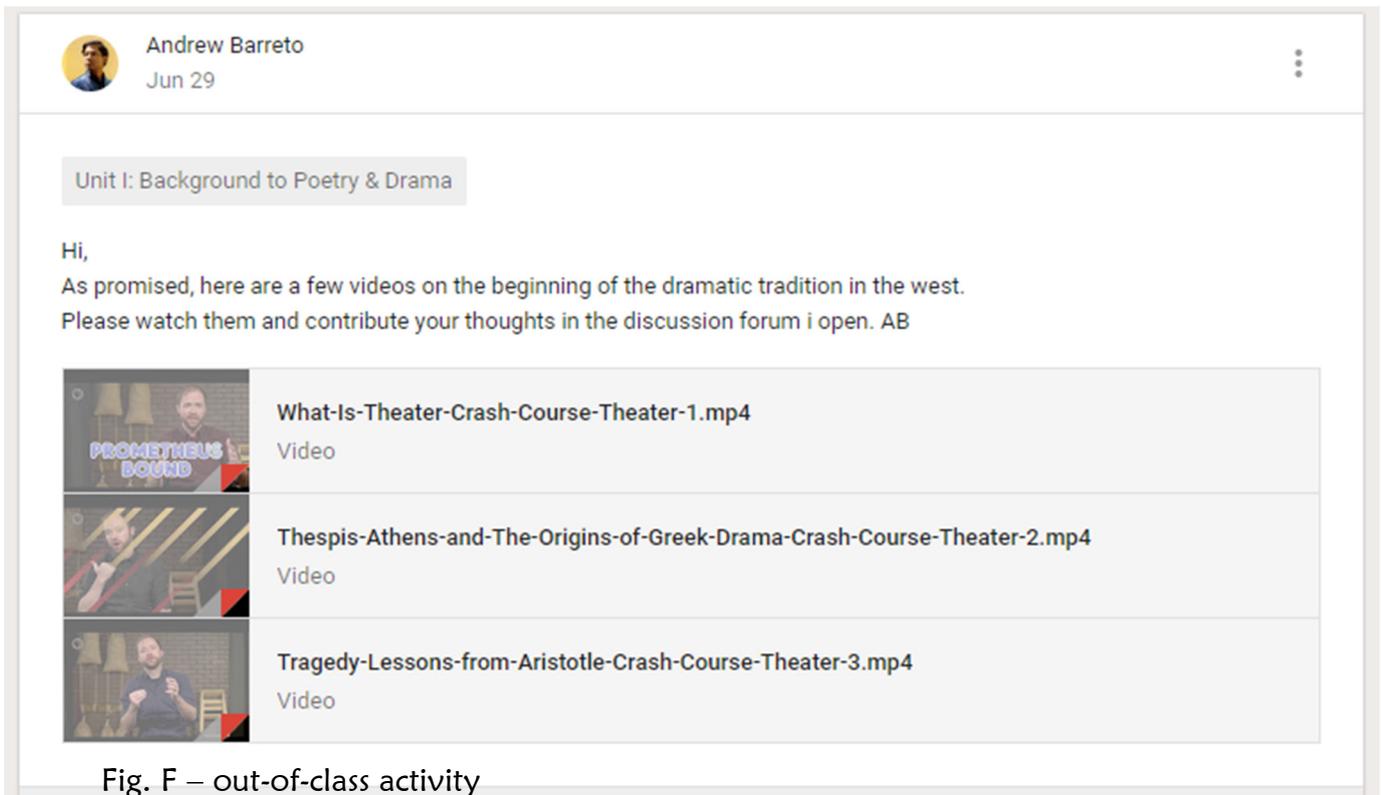

Fig. F – out-of-class activity

This is an example of an out of class activity to be done by the students. These activities aid the CLS used in class.

EVALUATIONS

Term papers, Submission based Semester end exams, Semester end project, portfolio building exams are all a part of the summative evaluations that are given at the department. Here are a few examples. Fig. G is the final Semester End Submissions for the Writing for the Media Course, where the students had to create an e-portfolio. These e-portfolios can be carried across terms and used through their three years and finally converted into an e-resume.

Here are a few links of students' eportfolios:

The screenshot shows a Canvas LMS announcement page. At the top, there is a navigation bar with a hamburger menu, the course name '3:18_Writing for the Media', and tabs for 'INSTRUCTIONS' and 'STUDENT WORK'. A user profile icon is visible in the top right. The main content area has a green header with the text 'Due Oct 17' and 'FINAL SEMESTER END SUBMISSIONS! DEADLINE - 17 OCTOBER, 2018'. Below this, the instructor's name 'Andrew Barreto' and the date 'Oct 12 (Edited Oct 12)' are shown. The announcement text includes the college name 'PARVATIBAI CHOWGULE COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCE (AUTONOMOUS)', the project title 'BA Semester End Project - October, 2018', and the subject 'English Title: Writing for the Media'. It provides detailed instructions for three tasks: I. Drafting a short movie, B. Recording a radio show, and III. Creating an e-portfolio. Each task includes specific requirements and rubric information. A warning states that multiple submissions will not be awarded. A file list at the bottom includes 'Modern Language Association MLA Handbook for Writing Project.pdf' and 'Sample MLA Paper with notations.pdf'. A comment box is visible at the very bottom.
