From

The President of University of La Réunion

To

Partners of the INTERREG-funded research program PaTRIM-OI

Subject: Engagement letter following funding the PaTRIM-OI research program

Dear Partners,

I am pleased to confirm that the PaTRIM-OI research program was funded by the European Commission through its funding instrument, INTERREG V 2014-2020. This instrument is managed directly by regional governing authorities and is meant to foster cooperation on a regional level with countries and territories neighboring European regions. As one of eight ultra-peripheral regions, La Réunion is proud to be at the cutting edge of such cooperation.

As a result, it is a great honor to commit our involvement with you in the present project on behalf of University of La Réunion and the research laboratories managing the program, OIES and LCF. Please find hereafter a description of the PaTRIM-OI research program, and what it entails regarding our mutual research activities in the next two years.

PaTRIM-OI - Cultural heritage in the Indian Ocean, from global to local :
Tanzania, Reunion, India, Mauritius

Funding agency: European Commission

Funding instrument: INTERREG Research Program

Funding reference: Région Réunion - GUIDDE/2020-2671-0028008

Funding direct beneficiary: University of La Réunion

Managing research laboratories: OIES-EA12, LCF-EA 7390

Scientific Coordinators: Assoc. Prof. Béatrice Moppert, PhD ; Assoc. Prof. Fabrice Folio, PhD ; Prof. Telesphore Brou, PhD ; Prof. Carpanin Marimoutou, PhD

Background

This INTERREG project focuses on the knowledge, inventory, preservation and enhancement of cultural heritage in the Indian Ocean area. It is led by geographers from the University of Reunion Island, members of the OIES (Indian Ocean: Spaces and Societies) research unit, as well as literature researchers from the LCF (Research Laboratory on Creole and Francophone spaces) research unit.

The Program is research-action oriented. The scientific approach is therefore enhanced with an initial theoretical corpus, analytical fieldwork and concrete final applications, drawing up a structuring project.

Our approach is based on a twofold observation:

- a) Heritage is an essential social need;
- b) The evolution of the notion of heritage broadens and increases the potential for recognition of heritage objects.

In this context, in line with this call for projects, we wish to highlight accurately the links between local and more affinity and/or community-based cultural heritage and global heritage (such as UNESCO places) in the Indian Ocean area.

As the Indian Ocean has been for a very long time an area of passage and migration, this research will thus make it possible to refine knowledge on what constitutes heritage but also what is rejected as such, depending on whether one is confronted with the spaces of departure or the spaces of arrival. We will use a contrastive and comparative approach,

Geographical coherence and historical consistency

The fieldwork remains, in general, still rather little treated and yet it is very rich in lessons. It can be broken down as follows (PaTRIM-OI):

- Reunion Island and Mauritius, island areas, both members of the Indian Ocean Community (IOC);
- Tanzania and India, territories outside the IOC in the Great Indian Ocean, also chosen here as coastal States.

Historical coherence is understood through two major areas of origin of the migratory waves towards the islands of the south-western Indian Ocean, each associated with a major historical sequence: the slave trade and slavery (here with the coast of Tanzania as a reference area, although it was not the only one), and indentured labor or subcontracted work (the flagship area here being India, although here too the historical process cannot be only reduced to it).

Scientific actions and methods

Action 1: Inventory, choice and typology of objects and sites

The inventory of heritage objects will be carried out in an exhaustive manner in the various fields studied with regard to official international or national recognition (Unesco, Archeological Survey of India, Cities of Art and History...).

The identification of lesser known or unrecognized objects-places will be the subject of a choice based on conditions of comparability and according to a justified subjective selection (historical, scientific and spatial coherence...).

Action 2: Comparative and critical analysis of the stakes of cultural heritage sites

The analysis aims to put into perspective the dynamics of cross-patrimonialisation of emblematic cultural landscapes and to identify their different stakes: political, economic, identity and territorial.

Based on pre-identified case studies, the synthetic research will focus on :

- A common methodology for the different sites: interview guide, survey questionnaires, field surveys, collection of audio and/or video testimony,
- A synthetic restitution using the hypothetico-deductive approach

Action 3: Promotion of the Intangible Heritage of the Indian Ocean area

The analysis aims, starting with texts, speeches and objects-places related to the history of slavery and indentured labor, to popularize and make better known to the general public the wealth of intangible heritage resulting from fieldwork.

The approach will also propose to work on other intangible materials such as culinary or musical aspects and see the crossbreeding and transformations in the indian ocean area.

THE J. WILLIAM FULBRIGHT FOREIGN SCHOLARSHIP BOARD

Dear Fulbright Candidate:

On behalf of the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board, I am pleased to congratulate you on your selection for a Fulbright award to the United States. Our presidentially appointed 12-member Board is responsible for supervising the Fulbright Program worldwide and approving the selection of all Fulbright recipients. Your grant is a reflection of your leadership and contributions to society, and is made possible through funds appropriated annually by the U.S. Congress and, in many cases, by contributions from partner countries and the private sector.

Your selection for a Fulbright award is an achievement for which you can be justly proud. The Fulbright Program is devoted to increasing mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries. Fulbright is the world's largest and most diverse international educational exchange program. As a grantee, you will join the ranks of many distinguished program participants. Fulbright alumni have become heads of state, judges, ambassadors, cabinet ministers, CEOs, and university presidents, as well as leading journalists, artists, scientists, and teachers. They include 60 Nobel Laureates, 84 Pulitzer Prize winners, and 37 current or former heads of state or government, and thousands of leaders across the private, public and non-profit sectors. Since its inception in 1946, more than 390,000 Fulbrighters have participated in the program.

Your award remains contingent upon your completing a few more important steps. Among these are obtaining a satisfactory medical clearance, and a visa, if required. You will receive additional information on your award shortly from the Fulbright Commission or Institute of International Education (IIE). After you receive your grant documents, you must sign and return them as instructed. If you have any questions, please contact your Fulbright Commission or program representative at IIE.

The Fulbright Program's goal of developing international understanding depends on you and your commitment to establishing open communication and long-term cooperative relationships. As a Fulbright participant and a representative of your country, you will have the opportunity to work collaboratively with international partners in educational, political, cultural, economic, and scientific fields. We also hope you will engage in your local host community while on your Fulbright exchange. In so doing, you will exemplify the qualities of service, leadership, and excellence that have been hallmarks of this Program for nearly 75 years.

The United States Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, which oversees Fulbright Program operations throughout the world, joins the Board in congratulating you. We hope your Fulbright experience will be deeply rewarding professionally and personally, and that you will share the knowledge and experience you gain with many others throughout your life.

Sincerely,

Paul Winfree
