FRESHERS PARTY

The S.Y & T.Y.BSc. Biotech students arranged a welcome party for the F.Y.B.Sc. Biotech students on 14th July 2018 with fun games and also gave them an opportunity to introduce themselves to know each other.

SCIENTOONS

The Department of Biotechnology conducted a National Workshop on Scientoons in college on 18th and 19th August 2018 which was sponsored by DST, Goa. This unique workshop was organized for the first time in Goa to inculcate the culture of environmental awareness and convey solutions through simple scientoons. The resource person for this workshop was Dr. Pradeep K. Srivastava, Father of Scientoons and Scientoonics, Senior Principal Scientist in Medicinal and Process Chemistry Division, Former Deputy Director of Central Drug Research Institute, Lucknow. In the final session of the workshop, a scientoon competition on the theme 'Clean and Green Goa' was held, which addressed problems along with solutions on postcards wherein five prizes were awarded. The 'Best Scientoon Award' and the Second prize were won by Ms. Lakiesha Costa and Ms. Raisa Rodrigues respectively, both students of SY Biotechnology. Ms. Costa has also been nominated as an "Ambassador of Scientoons for the State of Goa" by Dr. Pradeep K. Srivastava.

CERTIFICATE COURSE IN FOOD PRODUCT AND BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

STUDENTS ACHIEVEMENT

- Ms. Fauzia Shaikh, a dedicated, self -motivated and perseverant third year student of Biotechnology was the recipient of 'Khorana Fellowship' for the 'Khorana Program for Scholars 2018' which is a joint venture of the Department of Biotechnology, Government of India and the Indo-US Science and Technology forum. It provides an opportunity to the Indian students to experience world-class research facilities in leading U.S. institutions. She has carried out research at the University of Wisconsin Madison from 21st May 2018 to 31st July 2018. This Program is envisaged to provide encouragement to young scholars to undertake Research and Development, enable students to carry out research at a premier University in the United States and transform research into societal benefits and finally, to build a seamless scientific community between India and the United States.
- Teams of 15 students each from the Department of Biotechnology and Biochemistry participated in intercollegiate events MICRONOVA 2K19 and 'MICROVISTA 1.0' on 22nd and 25th January 2019, organised by Department of Microbiology, PES, College, Ponda Goa, and St. Xaviers College, Mapusa-Goa Respectively. Students participated in the various events organised and were the overall winners of the MICROVISTA 1.0.

ALPHA 2K18 LEAVES A SCAR

On the 13th of July 2018, the English department of Parvatibai Chowgule College hosted and organized the freshers party, AKA "Alpha", to welcome the First-year students to the department. The horror-themed bash in accordance with the day being 'Friday the 13th' was held in the upper auditorium. The event commenced at 2:30pm with the freshers entering the dimly lit auditorium while the audio of an eerie lullaby played in the background. The event was addressed by head of department, Dr. Sonia Fernandes DaCosta, followed by a skit/murder-mystery game where the students pursuing their first year of Bachelors and Masters degrees were split into teams with horror themed mascots. The mascots were Slenderman, Freddy Krueger, headless man and Ghostface (Scream), who were all played by second year students Shubhankar, Quibila, Jaff and Chrisneil, respectively. The teams were allowed to inspect the crime scene and were also allowed to ask questions to each of the 'suspects' during the 'interrogation' to catch the 'killer'. Team Scream emerged victorious in the end with accurate motives and correctly identifying the murderer. After this, the first years were asked to introduce themselves one by one, followed by the traditional slideshow of the events that the English department participated in and hosted in 2017-2018. The thrilling troupe of second-years Nikita, Shamin, Sasha, Micah, and Vrinda later switched to full zombie mode as they danced to Michael Jacksons' 'Thriller' (albeit, with a message for the new kids about the 'nightmarish' college life ahead) and finally concluded with a photo session where all the teachers and students posed for the camera.

This event would not have been the success it was, if not for the hard work put in by Nikita Sequeira at the forefront managing the events, food and invites, ensuring that everything went as planned, Zoya Rebello and Schynelle Costa in charge of the murdermystery skit/ game, Galicia Rodrigues taking charge of the music, the décor by Quibila Dsouza, Jaff Fernandes and Jisha Ponnachan, and the mementos made by third year student, Jashmi Sirakaje. And, hence, a special thanks to everyone who made this 'Alpha' a day to dismember...ahem, remember!

The welcome party, commonly referred to as, "Alpha" was organised by the English Department on Friday the 13th, in July, 2018. And I'm sure that you can guess the theme of the party.

The Alpha was something that the first-year batch was looking forward to. There was much speculation and excitement amidst all the freshers. The eerie invitation followed by the long period of wait, with patience, helped build the excitement and enthusiasm in each one of us.

The party was well organised, and joyous – we enjoyed ourselves and were left in amazement at the creative and wonderous mementos.

Our seniors have indeed set a benchmark for us - a challenge that we all accept and hope to surpass the following year.

By Rachel Dias

How frightened would you be, if you heard the invite to the Alpha 2018 late at night? That was us scared yet excited to hear the ghosts inviting us to party with them. Days passed and the eagerness grew, curiosity trampled our minds. Decisions of what to wear and how to look the scariest. Then came the day "Friday The 13TH".

Dressed up as ghosts, spirits and supernatural figures, we were curious and eager to know what our senior ghosts had in-store for us. We were then escorted by the ghosts themselves.

As they lead us down the grave our heart beats grew stronger, as we walked amongst horror characters. It was spooky enough to give me Goosebumps. The auditorium or the grave was very well decorated.

Then commenced the party of the dead..... But first we had to free a spirit. A short play way performed by the seniors, we had to solve the misery with the help of case files, we could interview the suspects and investigate the crime scene, and solve the murder . it was very interesting and fun as we solved it in groups.

We saw the ghosts dance to thriller by the one and only Michael Jackson!!! The Snacks were above and Beyond that really synchronized with the theme.

We were then Shown a PowerPoint based on the events organised by the English department like "The Bard by The Mandovi" and "Pegasus".

We danced to the beat of the craziest music ever with our mascots, seniors and teachers. It really lit our day. And we were presented with really unique mementos. It was a day of fun, enjoyment and "spooky-ness" !!!

DOG-EAR'S POETRY SLAM

The budding poets of Chowgule College came together for the open-mic Poetry Slam hosted by the Dogears Book Store on the O6th of July 2018. As the name suggests, the open-mic slam was open to all, and witnessed a considerable turnout from students and working professionals alike.

The event commenced at 5:30 pm, where everyone sat in a cozy circle and one by one read out their poems. It was a rare combination of soulful and fun filled. The event wound up by 6:45 pm.

A number of First Year students from the department announced their presence at the event. Srushti with her poems 'Seasons of the Year' and 'Love Like No Other', Jeff with his poem, 'The Cheetah', Ramya with 'The Pursuit of Happiness' and Zulfareen with 'Goodbyes'.

The Dogears book store is located at: Shop No. SH1 Adolfo Mansion Bernardo da Costa road, near Dr Menezes Nursing Home.It has a wide and vivid collection of books and is run by Leonard & Queenie Fernandes.

For those interested in joining us at the next Poetry Slam or perhaps just dropping by to thumb though a book, the Dogears Book Store hosts open-mic poetry slam every first Friday, at 5:30 pm. Do come by.

LITERATURE AS A REFLECTION OF SOCIETY

Any piece of Literature, in some or the other form, mirrors the society. Sometimes it is the plot which resembles the society and the other times it is personality of the characters but there is always some element in Literature which mirrors the type of society it was based on or written in. Countless famous authors, poets and dramatists have based their work on the society, its problems and its way of thinking. One of the best examples for such books is 'The Kite Runner' by Khaled Hosseini. This book is set in two places - initially in Afghanistan and later on in America. The writer beautifully depicts Kabul in Afghanistan, back in the days when it was majestic to witness. The protagonists - Amir, the son of a rich Pashtun and Hassan, the Hazara servant of Amir - are portrayed as best friends despite the differences in their status. The book is about how the story unfolds as a result of the society's view point. The author repeatedly tries to highlight how important society's opinion is, be it to the likes of the reader or not. The novel portrays different aspects of the Afghan society - ethnicity, religion, politics. This is one amongst the many novels which reflect the nature of human societies all over the world in an excellent manner. Other commendable novels which heavily reflect the societies are Pride and Prejudice (Jane Austen), Hard Times (Charles Dickens), etc.

Amongst the poets, one of the poets who was inspired a lot by the society around him was Robert Frost. His famous poem, The Roadside Stand, is an excellent example to depict society's reflection on Literature. The poem explicitly depicts the plight of the poor rural farmer, who expects to make a living by selling his fruits on his roadside stand. The highs and lows of any society can be best understood through any source that is both comprehensible and interesting at the same time and for this, Literature can be the best source to reach out for.

SPECIAL!

THE BARD BY THE MANDOVI THE SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

Let me take you through the journey...A personal account.

Honestly, I have no idea what I'm doing. I was asked if I could write something about William Shakespeare or about the Shakespeare festival for the newsletter. Well, I went about organising the Shakespeare festival without even knowing the Bard's birthday or anything about any of his plays (except Romeo and Juliet). So, I'm going to write about the one thing I do know: organising the Shakespeare festival.

Please bear with me, this is not about how not to lose your head while organising an event, no, its about how I almost lost my head doing so. Two of my friends joked about having a bet on when I'll have a nervous breakdown, but I came back completely fine so the jokes' on them. This whole article is all about me complaining about something that happened a month ago, along with a bunch of good things to say because after all I did enjoy the festival a lot! So, enjoy reading it! Firstly, I want to get one thing clear, I didn't actually plan on being one of the main organisers. My fate got clearer with each ETC club meeting, and as the number of FYs turning up to take responsibiliries declined. Before I knew it, my fate was sealed with molten red wax, when I, partially out of habit, and because of the kind of person I am, started noting down details and keeping a record of everything on my notebook- which got wildly popular by the nickname 'The Bible.'

Anyway, time went by, and Sir Andrew had instructed us right in the beginning to get the planning started and getting things done one by one, but did we listen? Nooooo! I mean we did in the beginning, we decided on the events and updated the brochure but after that we forgot about it. Somehow lethargy took over, and we felt like things will somehow get done. Before we knew it was August and the Shakespeare festival was going to happen on September 10th, just 40 more days! We finally started getting serious. Invites and sponsorship forms were printed. We made teams for everything: Registration team, décor team, mementos team, refreshment team and so on. Names were added to and chucked out from The Bible. Most of the invites were sent. I thought we were making progress and everything will be fine. Abd then, the next thing I know its September 1st. I have no idea what actually happened. Did I go paranoid? It's like I just slept for 3 weeks and suddenly woke up. We had the sword hanging upon us. Now the actual work started. We were on fire. First, we needed sponsors. Yes, we needed them desperately. The sponsorship forms had been lying on Epi ma'am's desk for days. Finally, we each took a couple of them, and started roaming around Margao and outside in search of sponsors. I can tell you from first hand experience that its hard getting sponsors, and I also admit that more often than not, you don't get them. You just get driven away sometimes. I had taken 3 forms and they are still staring at me from my desk. Luckily my friends and classmates were successful and somehow managed to get over 60K! I have to say I was, well, shocked but at the same time on cloud nine. Now that we had the capital, the next step was mass production.

Students experience the Shakespeare Festival for the first time...

I was on the décor team so I'll talk about that. The rest of the stuff was taken care of by other responsible people so I'm glad about that. My friend Rachel and I had roamed around college planning the decoration in detail, but, in the end, used like 30 percent of that plan. But it did end up looking great, so that's good. And most of the décor was completed on Saturday (8 September) and Sunday (9 September) so that's something to be proud of.

The festival was on Monday (10 September) so to get all the final preparations done, we decided to come to college on Sunday, and despite all the tiring work, I have to say it was a great day. Most of us reached college at 10:30am. It was a weird feeling roaming around college when the classes were locked and no one was there, but it was an experience I won't mind having again. We had booked a classroom in the G block to do our work and it was in a mess from all the décor work that we had done the previous day. Someone put on some music and we started our work. We bonded with each other and had loads of fun in each other's company and the serene environment of our usually busy college. We had started around 10 and by the time we finished decorating the upper auditorium it was 7. Well, the countdown had begun... we had a busy day coming up next...!

The whole month of August, I had been like a human timer, saying stuff like, Oh god! We only have one month!" "Shit! Ramya is it 15th August already?" Anushri Bhende (FYBA) gives an indepth BTS peek into one of the biggest events at Chowgule College!

"Guys 5 more days to go!" And finally, "Ray its 12am! The festivals today!" At 8 in the morning I got my first call from Rucha: "Anushri the décor is falling off!" I remember just looking up blankly, and being like WHY??! I reached college and somehow, we fixed most of the stuff. After that there were various other problems: the food stall was not set up, some schools hadn't come yet, no one was there to take care of the refreshment stand...If I keep listing all the problems and their solutions we somehow came up with, it'll take more time than you would like to spend on this article of mine. So I'll move on to the good parts. The spectacle planned and executed by Amanda and Liza with the help of Anisha and Jeff was amazing. Most of the participants and all the volunteers were cooperative and that helped a lot, and the performances I was able to witness were wonderful. But by the time the winners were announced I was dead on my feet. After all the participants went out of the auditorium, I just looked at my friends and was like "Man! It's over.. finally!"

But actually, it was not! We still had to clean up, some of us stayed back and finished that. By the end of the week all of the things that had gotten lost in the chaos were found. And by the end of the month all the loose ends (like the bills, attendance etc.) were tied up.

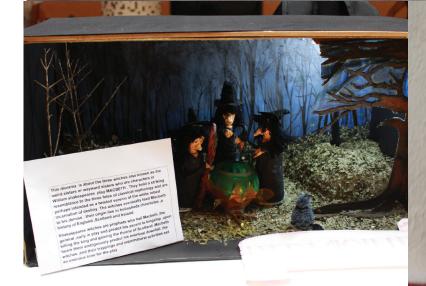

All in all, it was a great, albeit exhausting experience. I bonded with a lot of my classmates and learned a lot. Well I'll sign off saying that I can't wait to see how our seniors handle Pegasus..!

Shh, I'm going to help them. ***

SHAKESPEARE MEMORIES A PHOTOGRAPHER'S ACCOUNT:

This was the first time I became a part of the Shakespeare festival that I had already heard so much about. My seniors had boasted about it being the best event of Chowgule College, and I did end up realizing that they weren't just boasting. The event actually turned out to be worth every moment I spent working on it. Moments...! That reminds me that I got one of the best jobs on the day of the event.. capturing moments! I was a part of the team of photographers and we were stationed at different places in the campus the whole day, capturing different moments through the lens.. I charged my camera, put the SD card in, slipped the camera around my neck and thus began a day of numerous clicks.. The day began with a huge chaos with all the participants and organizers alike running around the campus, registering, making last minute preparations, occasionally checking their make up and bracing themselves for the day.. For a moment, I just stood still trying to take in the myriad movements happening around me at the same time, and stood there, till it struck me that the perfect moment to blink the shutter was here! Every moment felt worth a click as they were all memories, each one as beautiful as the other.. But I soon sorted out my thoughts and got on track of what to capture and what not to. A number of events were happening simultaneously because of which I had to run around the entire campus to make sure I didn't miss anything. The participants all looked super excited, their excitement peppered with a pinch of nervousness. Nevertheless they happily posed for pictures flaunting their flamboyant costumes. It almost tired me looking at the organizers and volunteers perpetually running around fixing gaps and loopholes. I made sure I captured their stressed happy faces too. This year had an extra bonus of fun as the 'Cosfest Goa' by the English department itself was combined with Shakespeare festival making the day all the more crazy! All the participants for cosfest were truly amazing and their hardwork could be seen in their costumes, confidence level and performance. It was fun to click and see our all-time favourite characters come alive in front of us. The day was filled with smiles, colour, nervous energy and a whole lot of memories for me. Over a thousand snaps, almost as many clicks, innumerable moments, one day- The Shakespeare Festival..!

"Well, who is this Shakespeare?" If I were to ask this question, especially as an English major student, people would definitely think I am stupid not to know who Shakespeare was..! Just like that, when one comes to Smt. Parvatibai Chowgule College of Arts and Sciences, they should definitely know what The Shakespeare festival Goa is all about! Famously known as 'The Bard By the Mandovi' I haven't met a person yet, who doesn't know about this one of a kind event. Schools and Higher Secondary Schools from literally all over Goa actively become a part of this event as 'The Bard By the Mandovi' is the one of the most well known cultural events by the English department of Chowgule college. When I was planning to write an article about the Shakespeare festival I felt curious to know, how did it all begin? When did it begin? Whose idea was it? And how has it transformed and evolved over the years ..? Personally I had never been a part of the fest before, and it was only this year when I became a part of the organizing team and got in to the actual process of it's making, that I realized why this event carries the legacy that it does. The festival this year was truly amazing, and all the organisers had really put in great efforts to make things work to the best. It was a great experience for me. After the event got over, I couldn't stop myself from asking our mentor, and drama teacher, Asst. Prof. Mr. Andrew Baretto about the inception of the event, and it's journey over the years... "The event started in 2010.", Andrew sir said. He further added that, "The English department was then led by ma'am Rajashree Desai and she wanted to organize something for the school students and promote the love for language among young hearts. Ma'am Desai came up with the idea of having a workshop but I wanted to integrate competitions with that. After it was decided that we shall have various competitions, we planned on promoting Shakespeare. Ma'am Desai came up with the name 'The Bard by the Mandovi', to give it a Goan touch and essence." Sir further said that the event has definitely grown with each year, and by promoting Shakespeare, his time and works, the English department is promoting English literature among the youth. With each edition, the number of events in the festival has gone up. Various new and creative ideas given by various people have been integrated and refined, to give birth to the eight odd events that we have today for the Shakespeare Festival. The number of teams participating every year has also gone up, and the schools eagerly wait every year to receive the invites. When asked what other changes sir would like to see in the coming years he mentioned that, "It would be nice if we get a proper and better venue with good lighting and sound effects. And I also plan and intend to make it a 2 day event and include more activities under it. I wish to reach this event to a larger audience."

The eight edition of 'The Bard by the Mandovi' this year, that I was a part of, was definitely a great success and I too hope to see the event grow even further. The participants also had a positive response to being part of the different events and said they learned a lot. The success and growth of any such event finally boils down to the organising team and the supportive team of mentor teachers.. And seeing the level the festival has reached to today, they have evidently done a great job..! So kudos to all of them!

SHAKESPEARE FEST SPECIAL'S TEAM:

"Being a part of Shakespeare right from it's planning to it's complete execution has definitely been a life changing experience for me. The memories that I've created along this journey of around two months are too many to count. And yeah I treasure each of them, and laugh my wits out at some.;) More than anything else, it was a great learning experience, and I realized how much thought and effort actually goes in to organizing an event. I learned a lot about team dynamics and ended up befriending and getting closer to the whole organizing team. This experience also improved my analytical skills and helped me get a practical view of the tasks at hand. I had anyway fallen in love with the idea of such a literary festival that promotes in the young kids the love for literature, especially Shakespearean literature, and thus I feel elated to have been able to a part of it's organization. So yeah, here's to the happy, crazy memories we made..! #LoveSuperShakes!"

Ramya Warrier, Editor

"Being a photographer for the festival, I feel the Bard By The Mandovi is for every reason the most happening event of Chowgule College. The hard work that the college students put in and the schools that participated in different competitions is something which together helps to make an event awesome and memorable." -Rahmat Shaikh, Photographer

"When we were discussing about the festival, one of my friends told me that she had participated in the festival and later their principal came up and said, "Shakespeare festival is one of the best events held by Chowgules, do well." I personally had never been for the fest before, and when actually attended the event, I was of the same opinion as the principal. The fest was truly amazing; the organizer had really put in great efforts to make it work." -Manasi Talaulikar, Photographer

"Organising the Shakespeare Festival was a lot of fun. I was incharge of the Diorama Drama and was in the quadrangle the entire time but there was so much happening there itself. There were three events happening there. All the event managers there helped out each other and it was a lot of fun." -Rucha Prabhudesai, Reporter

"This year's Shakespeare's Fest teamed with the Cosfest Goa was truly euphoric . My favorite part of the shakespeare fest 2k18 was the cool rap battle between Titania and Juliet. Students from various schools and higher secondary schools participated actively in all the events. Looking at overall participation in the shakespeare fest and cosfest we can certainly say that it is gaining more popularity day by day." -Rukma Kanolkar, Designer

"I stepped on college premises on Shakespeare fest and felt tremendous energy brimming in the air. Shakespeare fest was boisterous, fun and I got to make a lot of good memories. I really look forward to being a part of more such events with my friends." -Krupa Manerkar, Editor

INSIGHTS FROM OTHER STUDENTS:

"This year, it was not just a normal Bard by the Mandovi event but, the Super Shakespeare was born in Chowgule college. Every year, the first year students from the English department organize this event with fresh and innovative ideas. The event started with a rap battle between Juliet and Titania and ended with the Black Panther stealing the hearts of the spectators. The fusion of the Shakespeare festival with the event Cosfest Goa attracted the school and college students from all over Goa. The judges and the teachers left the event as Super Judges and Super Teachers with a cape. Overall, it was a well-organised fun event." -S.C. Jashmi, TYBA

> "The Shakespeare festival was an insightful experience. I participated in the Cosfest which was tied up with the Shakespeare festival. It was intriguing to see so many different fictional characters come to life. Participants of cosfest did justice to their characters. They also provided a brief introspection into the lives of their characters. It was almost too surreal to see so many characters come to life. There were characters ranged from villains to heroes to princesses. The whole event was exciting. It was just the type of event that the Shakespeare festival needed to get everyone excited and enthusiastic. All in all, to see so many characters from our imagination come to life was a pleasant sight to the eye."

> > -Janvi Shirodkar, FYBSc

INSIGHTS FROM TEACHERS:

"I felt that the overall program was well put together. All the hard work that went into realising the festival, especially decoration like cutting up leaves and petals was worth it. I felt the students stepped up to the challenge. Those that were most enthusiastic about the festival saw it off until the end. My advice to the team would be to prepare for events in as much advance as possible and even great ideas need cleaning up later" - Delilah Pacheco, Asst. Prof., English Dept.

"This year the event was larger than any year before. Maybe this is because we had Cofest Goa along with Shakespeare fest. It was also rambunctious! A lot of noise and revelry... which is good for an event like this. I'm sure this event can become bigger and better, that's always something to strive for." Asst. Prof., Andrew Barreto English

WE MADE OUR OWN OUTFITS FROM SCRATCH

Talking about the inspiration behind this festival, event in-charge Asst Prof Andrew Barreto said, "We have started a course in visual literature, in which study comics and graphic narratives. It's an allied field in literature. So, we started this first to get students involved in that and to engage with pop culture. I went with our students to the Mumbal ComicCon and we wanted to bring it to Goa in a small way." Not only were the characters extremely relevant to the current pop culture scenario, but the detailing and execution of each of the costumes was completely on point. What's surprising is that most of the winning costumes were created by the students them-selves! Hussain Desai who came dressed as Hussain Desai who came dressed as Hussain Desai who came dressed as a PubG player (from the popular online game) told us. "We wanted to put a bunch of Interesting characters togeth-er and come up with an entertaining act. We did not purchase any of the cos-tumes, but made them ourselves using a lot of recycled products, such as plas-tic bags, organic colours, cans and sponges." Ann. a student of Demon PACE cos-

SO, WHAT'S THE STORY

BEHIND THEIR COSPLAY?

Aarif Khalifa, from Dhempe College of Arts and Science, who suffered a slipped disc last year, says he chose the character of Darth Vader because he could relate to the Star Wars villain. "Since I was on bed and rest.

couldn't go out often, I would watch movies at home. When I saw Rogue One: A Saw Wars Story, I became a huge fan of Vader. I read up on him and learnt that he has no limbs. He has third degree burns, no lungs, a robotic voice box, and his life-support armour feeds nutrient fluids directly into his body since he can't eat the normal way. His helmet has needles which go three inches deep into his skull to control his suit. I realised that at least I didn't have it that bad. Secondy, a very dear friend of mine stopped talking to me on my birthday, which left me deeply hurt. Again, I remembered that my pain is nothing compared to Vader's, who thinks he killed his wife. 'He made his costiunes himself, by using cardbaad and watching DIY videos. Seven-yearold Kurt Fernandes, a Cass 2 student at Sharada Mandir School said he wanted to cosplay Batman because "although I Batman because "although I Batman, Jo not possess super powers like other superhemes, I can defeat criminals through my hard work and trathing. Also, I strongly believe in truth and justice." His mom Sheelag with Kurt. He helped me paint it, and even designed this costiume along with Kurt. He helped me paint it, and even designed the mask and the beli. The costiume was stitched by "atalor at Panjim market though."

The costume was -at Panjim market though." "We picked characters from Rick And Morty simply because we're fans of the show's dark humour, inter-dimensional travel and absurdity We thought we match the characters' physical appearance too, and recreated Rick's haft using acrylic plant, hairspray and a whole lot of gel. The overall experience was really great." said Malalka """hoursus

'Pegasus Untamed' - XIth edition of Goa's foremost English Literary Festival Margao -14 December, 2018: Pegasus -Imagine. Create. Inspire., the biggest intercollegiate English Literature festival in Goa organized by the students of the department of English, Parvatibai Chowgule College of Arts & Science – Autonomous, concluded its eleventh year of competitions on the 14thof December, 2018. The theme of the two day event was - UNTAMED- and revolved around all forms of adapted literature. The longest running English literary Festival in Goa also adapted itself this year by inviting non-literature students to enjoy literature in its most enjoyable form - through healthy competition. 21 events over two days covered the most intellectual to the wackiest of events testing skills in Language, Media and Literature. The teams chose their team names from adapted literature as well as their beautiful mascots. The mascots enlivened the college atmosphere - from Hela, Queen of hearts (Alice in wonderland), Cruella de Vil, Medusa, to Jaffar, Wonder woman and Deadpool. A brand new event - Gamechanger - had students creating literary board games that can be enjoyed by everyone, while learning about literature. Wall-Me! had students graffiti a wall with an original meme based on literature and then camouflage a live model into it! That truly tested the artists skills. In The Roast, students roasted each other's chosen characters through a Rap-battle. Sample this - Sherlock Holmes in a rap battle with CID's ACP Pradyuman! LOL! In Slammit! (poetry challenge) a group performed a spoken poem on the Avid Procrastinator... something that all students identified with. Just Deserts witnessed beautiful plating and sumptuous main course and desserts in the literary food challenge! The best of the best had to endure a gauntlet of events, Pegasus Laureate. From The Professor to the freshest event The Gamer where participants had to hunt for artifacts of literature strewn all over the college campus. The best one was Antman, who was hidden behind their badge the entire day! Pegasus Untamed was won by Team Von Trapps - Goa University and runners-up were Team Swami - Rosary College, Navelim, followed by team Supernatural - V. M. Sal-

College, Sanquelim. Queen of Hearts and Hela were the best two cosplayers of the day winning the first and second place respectively. Asst. Prof. Andrew Barreto (Faculty In-charge) was excited about the new phase that Pegasus is starting - " After successfully completing 10 years we were wondering about where to go from here and whether fatigue is setting in for the event. It is amazing to see my worries are unfounded! The teams were so enthusiastic! Our mission in this phase is to popularise Literature among non-literature colleges and I'm glad that a couple participated this year. One even came overall third place - wow! What a feat for a first time participant! Here's to many more years of Pegasus.. like I said during the inaugural this year - Pegasus Forever!"

By Asst. Prof. Andrew Barreto

On 21st December, 2018, we, a restless bunch of young first years & second years embarked on a fun filled trip....to Comic Con, Mumbai!

COMIC-CO

Accompanied by our teachers, we made our way safely across the traffic jammed roads of Goregaon, traveling in packs as we stuffed our-selves into uber cabs and rickshaws which hurtled over 'under construction roads', before finding ourselves smack dab in the middle of the crowded venue, The Bombay exhibition centre, that was teeming with cosplayers dressed as various characters from telly shows, movies, anime, etc. And of course, we also found ourselves falling prey to our very own 'kryptonite'- the various fan merch on sale there! Keychains, apparel, books, posters and more...we went on a shopping spree!

We also interacted with talented comic artists and publishers like Blaft publishers from Chennai, Kanan Dhru (creator of the 'Lawtoon' comics), Abhijeet Kini of Tinkle comics, Alicia Souza and many more who're slowly taking the world by storm with their art and literature. We also got an opportunity to listen in on the secrets of the Marvel bullpen with acclaimed comic artist, Will Conrad and a comedian Sahil Shah stuck around to tickle our funny bones. We also witnessed book launches and trailer releases and even got to pose for a photoshoot in our finest costumes. If you spotted a Velma, 2 Sims, 2 Mary Poppinses (I'm guessing that's the plural), one Classic Doctor Who companion, Jean Grey, Riverdale's Veronica & Kim Possible, all led by an anime warrior princess at the helm....well,that was us!

And after 2 days of letting our 'geek flag' fly, going broke on all the fan merch that money can buy, cosplaying and participating in contests and mind-boggling games of Sherlockian proportions, we paid a visit to the malls o' Mumbai too (cuz when in Mumbai, obviously..!).

Since we'd been surviving and running on just Cinnabons, coffee and fast food, we energetic lot were treated to a sumptuous meal (young 'superheroes' like us need the occasional fine dining too) at the end of the day, before we headed back to the hotel (our 'Fortress of Solitude' for these 2 days), rested our sore bones and packed for the train journey home from Mumbai to Goa on 24th December (just in time for Christmas in Goa too!).

And that is how we brought an end to two supercharged, tiring, yet adventurous and actionpacked days that I'm sure we will always remember & cherish forever.

GOA ARTS & LITERARY FESTIVAL

By Liza Vaz

The Goa Arts and Literature Festival (GALF) is an annual literary festival held in Goa during the month of December. It is usually held at the International Centre Goa (ICG) at Dona Paula, Goa, with some sessions even being held at the Maquinez Palace,ESG in Panjim.

The ninth edition of the Goa Arts and Literature Festival was held at the International Centre in Goa from December 6-8 2018. Some of the notable writers who were present at the event are David Smith, Frederick Noronha, Shruti Debi, Wendell Rodricks, Paro Anand and Jonathan Gil Harris. With such a fine line up of interesting personalities, GALF 2018 turned out to be a grand success. Being an ardent fan of poetry and art myself, this festival was a great experience to interact with people who share the same interests. I attended 2 sessions on the first day, the first being the discussion titled " To Tell or Not to Tell : Dealing with the 'difficult' in books for young readers " featured by Paro Anand, Substantial Noronha and Jerry Pinto in conversation with Radhika Menon. It was a very interactive sort of deliberation based on whether literature for young readers should or should not contain certain "inappropriate" material. The second session was a presentation by Jonathan Gil Harris titled 'Masala Shakespeare: How a Firangi Writer Became Indian'. As a first year literature student studying Shakespeare, this talk provided a different outlook to studying the works of Shakespeare and even being able to trace the use of Shakespeare's ideas in the Indian film industry. Other attractions at the festival were a beautiful display of artworks by goan artists, a wide range of exclusive bookstalls including Broadway and Dogears, which offered a broad selection of books available in Goa, from local publishers to international ones. Young GALF, a section dedicated entirely to the younger ones conducted a number of games and competitions for school children based on the topics of poetry, art and literature. Thus, the entire event was indeed a good experience to interact with new people and learn to look at things from a different perspective.

The Department of English continued their lecture series under the 'Talking Tree Lecture Series' on 18th Jan, 2019, with guests all the way from Brazil.

Dr. Prof Helmer Garmes talks about Manifesto Anthropophagie

Dr. Prof. Cielo Festino (from the University of Paulista, Brazil) & Dr. Prof. Helder Garmes (from the University of São Paulo, Brazil) were the resource persons. They engaged the students in discussions on the work of writer Julio Cortázar and Oswald de Andrade. Julio Cortazar's short stories were discussed with special focs on the story, 'The House Taken Over'. Andrade's Manifesto Anthropophagie, his seminal cultural manifesto was discussed. Both sessions were conducted through a flipped classsroom. Thus, the students were ready for the sessions. The lecture was well attended by UG & PG Students of the English Department with 32 students and 6 faculty members.

AN EVENTFUL YEAR!

When I signed up for the job as an editor, I had a notion that all I'll have to do is go through articles and submit them. Rookie mistake. Over time, the concept of being an editor became clearer to me as I had to multitask between the newsletter, my grades and extracurricular activities. I had to proof read every article sent to me, hunt down people to write articles, break my head over grammatical mistakes and almost always sit with a dictionary in hand. There were always more things to be done and more articles to be brought in. Although it was not long before I realised that the joy of seeing your newsletter get published is unparalleled. It is a team effort, and everyone in the team makes it happen. It isn't often that the joy you feel can be shared with your friends. But as a newbie this year, being a part of the newsletter for the English department alone has taught me a lot. With the huge pile of activities happening all around the campus, we had to make sure that we brought out how they benefitted our classmates and seniors. The newsletter is this very effort to hone budding talents and give them a spotlight where they understand the value of their contributions. Here's to hoping for the success of our newsletter!!

On 10 Feb 2019 the English department of our college organised a field trip to the Museum Of Goa (MOG) located at Pilerne, Goa. Museum Of Goa founded by the Goan artist Dr Subodh Kerkar, is India's largest private art space. When we arrived at the Museum of Goa were were introduced to Dr Subodh Kerkar who briefed us on the idea behind building MOG. A documentary on the life of Dr Subodh Kerkar was then showed in the auditorium. An interactive session was then scheduled on the topic "Gandhi", after which the curator of MOG took the students for a round of the Museum. She showed us the different art works and explained what it symbolised. Among the varied art works a few eye-catching art works were: The "Chillies" with colourful textured patterns, the giant "Katrya Cho Pav" (the Goan bread)made out of rubber tyre scraps, and of course the most iconic "Carpet of Joy" constructed out of waste plastic bottles. After clicking tons of pictures in picturesque locations, the trip finally came to an end. Overall the trip to MOG was a fun and great learning experience!

WITMER ON 'POETRY &

Under the 'Talking Tree Series' introduced by the English Department, Professor Robert Witmer, from Sophia university, Japan was invited as the guest speaker to deliver a talk on the topic 'Poetry and Life' on 12 February 2019. The audience had a great time listening to him speak about the real essence of poetry, especially haiku poetry, and it's relevance in our lives. Following this talk, the writing centre organised a Haiku poetry workshop conducted by Professor Witmer himself. It was a 30 hour workshop that introduced students to the Japanese art of writing haikus. It was held from February 2019 to April 2019 in a series of 2-3 hour workshops held once or twice a week. Students were exposed to different forms of poetry that expanded their knowledge about Haikus and also gave them opportunities to write some of their own Haiku. Decoding the mysterious style and symbolisms that constitute a Haiku, professor Witmer did a wonderful job. He urged the students to submit their Haikus online and to gave them a platform to be creative.

DITORIAL MS. KRUPA MANERKAR

LITERATI! 2019 BACK WITH A BANG!

Masters English Students took it upon themselves to revive Literati! - the intra-college literary event... and it was an awesome revival!

By Loretta Rodrigues

The MA students from the Department of English of Chowgule College, in collaboration with the Students' Council organized the 6th edition of Literati!. The events took place across three days - 20th, 22nd and 23rd of February, 2019 and revolved around literature. Over 40 students participated in the event. The events on day 1 were Slammit and The Giggle Spot. While Slammit saw students perform/recite slam poems that they wrote themselves, The Giggle Spot was all about bringing out their funny side and entertaining the audience with their funny and not-sofunny jokes.

Day 2 was all the more interesting as students got creative for Just Deserts with their cooking skills and presented desserts inspired by their favorite Children's literature characters and stories. On the other hand some of the others got their pop culture knowledge and spellings tested in a fun game of Literary Snakes and Ladders.

Day 3 ended with RED, a super fun Scavenger hunt which left students gasping for breath as they ran around the campus looking for clues and completing some silly and embarrassing tasks. The last event for the day, the art event Get Blake-d, let the students' imaginations run wild as they created story book covers based on some crazy story lines.

The winners of the events were announced during Omega 2019, and 27 students took home certificates and trophies.

LATIN AMERICAN DAY

Sasha Fernandes whacks a piñata!

All the students involved in Latin American Day with Asstt. Prof. Delilah Pacheco By Anushri Bhende

Just so you know, the English Department of Parvatibai Chowgule College offers a course known as 'Latin American Literature' to the Third Year students. So as always they had to answer a CA to pass this course. But this is the English department, and we don't do things the normal way and that includes our CAs. Well, we do have written CAs, but that's not important right now. This time they decided to turn this CA into a sort of mini-event - a first of its kind for the department and the college. There was food, music, games, stories and a piñata!

All this happened on the 5th of March 2019 outside the college canteen as the 'Latin America Day'. The mastermind behind it was our Ma'am Delilah, who actually came up with it last year. However, this time it was conducted on a much larger scale than before. The students were divided into pairs and were assigned a Latin American country which they had to represent. They conducted games for the participants. Each pair made a dish originating from their assigned country which they gave as a prize for the winners of their individual game. All this was done amidst great music, colourful decoration and wonderful people. The event concluded with the much awaited breaking of the piñata. All went home with a smile on their face, good memories and tastes of cultures much different from their own.

Here's something about the event from Ma'am Delilah, "In the interest of increasing awareness about the course, a gallery walk was organized which exhibited special features of 08 different Latin American countries. While forming pairs, the TYBA students of the Latin American Literature class, adopted one country each to show-off while answering one of their Continues Assessment Exams in the process. The students were challenged to focus on any three of the following aspects in their presentation - culture, food, politics, literature and language. The objective was to create an increased an awareness about the course they were studying through active engagement, while providing an educationally stimulating experience during a continuous assessment (which during project submissions is a tough task indeed!).

WOMEN'S DAY SPECIAL Shame Game

This Women's Day, the students of MA Department of English along with the teachers did something different. Under the guidance of Ma'am Gauravi Keni, the students shot a small video in the college campus itself where the students spoke about the concept of 'Body Shaming', societal issues of body shaming, and how social conditioning causes it and the effects it has on people. The video took about a week to be shot and edited, which was very much appreciated by everyone who watched it. The students designed bookmarks and made posters for the screening which was held on 8th March 2019 beginning at 5:00pm.

The screening took place at Dogears bookstore which was followed by a panel discussion by three panellists. The panellists were Ms. Siddhi Parodkar, Asst. Professor in Law, G.R.Kare College of Law. She conducts sessions on issues concerning women, across the state and at national level. She has also presented papers on challenges faced by women in gender based discrimination for national and international conference and has been a coordinater for Legal forum (legal counseling at present litigation stage). The second panellist was Krishnakant Hegde Desai, who is a lawyer and assistant professor at Kare college. The third panellist was a nutritionist. There was a healthy discussion between the panellists and the others who attended the screening. The event started with a student welcoming everyone, followed by the screening and later two students moderating the panel. The event ended with an open mic session which was open for everyone. People sang, played the guitar and performed slam poems. The bookmarks were distributed along with chai and other delicacies which were delightful.

PRERNA DIWAS An Inspirational Day Filled with

Opportunities To Learn

The idea of 'Prerna Diwas' or the poster competiton has a really high research potential. Prerna divas gives a great platform for presenting our own work (our project) in front of various judges from outside, all faculty members and students of our college. Prerna Divas has been conducted for quite a few years, but the incorporation of prizes really helped in building a competitive spirit among all students, which motivated each and everyone to show their best out there. The main takeways that I had from the prerna divas was it enriched our public speaking and presentation skills a lot, it gave us a good grip over our topics and its objectives. It is a really good platform to showcase our own work and last but not the least the feedbacks from teachers and students were the greatest inputs that any researcher could ever ask for. Finally, I want this system to be continued even further for the upcoming years so that it will nurture a research oriented mindset in students. I also wish that they would provide the winners with some monetary rewards, if not now at least in the upcoming years, as the projects are of great value and they prove to be assets to the institution as well.

veryone needs a break in life, so did we English tygers from our continuous submissions, tests and presentations. Our jubilance knew no bounds when we received the call out for the bonding camp. We couldn't wait to get out there and make some fun and crazy moments! Our coordinator Nikita Sequeira did an amazing job with organizing the whole trip, and we landed on the beautiful Paradise Farms in Quepem on the crisp morning of 22 March 2019. The first years, second years, third years and the master's students were all together for the most spectacular outing ever. The thing all of us were most excited about was the swimming pool at the Paradise Farms. So we all jumped right in to it and had the greatest of times swimming, playing games, pulling off pranks and off course clicking loads of pictures. No one was spared and whoever denied getting in to the pool, found themselves being flung in to it before they knew it! The best part was the potluck lunch where everybody shared their homemade food making the lunch warm and full of love. It was so incredible to spending with the whole department as it helped us know eachother better. It was an adventure none of us will ever forget. It was undoubtedly a magical and ecstatic experience that we shall cherish forever. We definitely got to thank the English department and our professors Mr. Andrew Barreto and Ms. Delilah Pacheco for letting us create such amazing memories!

FAREWELL...

"Don't cry because it's over. Smile because it happened." - Dr. Seuss

As is the tradition, our department teachers and juniors organized a memorable farewell for us on 9 April at around 2pm. No, I did not cry but yes, the realization that three beautiful years have come to an end did make me feel a bit emotional. Three long years of making memories, meeting new people, academics, activities, events, submissions, friendship, clashes, crazy moments, and an amazing experience to be cherished for life. When I look back, it's all because of my teachers and my friends that I could make it through these years successfully. To add to it, the juniors made this day a memorable one indeed. Turning an emotional event named Farewell into Freedom! Yes, that was the theme of our farewell. This was followed by the rituals that we Tygers follow- a video comprising the moments and memories, yummy snacks, cake, cigar, champagne (non-alcoholic - Ed!) and of course the Red Bull. The cutest thing we received was a mugshot with description on why we were imprisoned and the reason for being released. We had a good time writing the funny moments on chits that were read at the end. Infinite photographs, lots of fun and enjoyment and a smile on each face showed that we had enjoyed (at least I did) our time in the English department. Time to complete the submissions in order to literally graduate (hehe!). Thank you to all the Juniors and the teachers for turning this sunset into a beautiful one.

FINAL YEAR GRADUATING THIRD YEAR BATCH & P.G ENGLISH BATCH

Omega is the annual year end awards ceremony conducted by the Dept. of English to celebrate their students. These are the many awards given away every year to shine a spotlight on the students, their work and effort and many a time to encourage them to greater achievements.

and the awar

This was my first time attending Omega and I was not expecting it to happen like it did. It was way more than a prize distribution, it felt like a positive encouraging push. Every time someone got a prize, I myself was inspired to do better and try my best to achieve more next year. I believe that it is a fantastic way to motive students and I sincerely thank Sir Andrew for coming up with this event. My only suggestion would be that the event should be conducted on the scheduled time, this makes it easier to plan other things." - Anushri Bhende (FYBA)

"Not many people encourage you to participate in extra-curricular activities, thinking it is useless. But it is due to these activities that students get the required exposure and experience. I thank the English department for felicitating students for their efforts and also giving us the opportunity to face real life practical issues while organizing different events. Thanks for making us feel worthy." - Ray Cyrus Gomes

"Winning the Most Endearing Award feels so surreal. It's still not sunk in. I am indeed honoured that my professors thought me to be worthy of the award. The Dept. of English ensures that everyone creates a unique niche for oneself. They give you the space and the much needed encouragement and motivation required to reach your goals. I owe it all to my professors who made us think out of the box. If not for them, I wouldn't be the person I am today. I am grateful to my friends too who made life more colourful with their love for life. And yes, not forgetting my juniors who were fountains of love. Three cheers to our great Department!!!"- Sasha Fernandes

S. C. JASHMI - "Student of the Year'- the title and the responsibility attached to it sounds too much to be handled! I would like to think of it as love received from the most happening department of the college, the English Department. First of all, a big thank you to all my teachers for believing in me throughout the three crazy years and helping me at each and every step. I shall cherish all the beautiful moments, the amazing people I have met here and the day, 09 April 2019, forever. Once an English Tyger, always an English Tyger!"

"Omega is indeed the best appreciation event that the Department of English organised. This event appreciates and encourages students to participate in events as well as excel in studies. Omega 2019 was great fun. We cheered for others and also got a certificates and chocolates ourselves. Looking forward to Omega 2020 to achieve even more!" Tanvi Prabhugaonkar

"Personally, I feel really great for having won these awards and certificates. It is really good to see the staff work so hard to organise such things to appreciate our talents and all the hard work that we put in for the department. Thanks to our professors for organising Omega! East or West, Department of English is the best!

WORLD POPULATION DAY

OBSERVED BY

DEPARTMENT OF GEOGRAPHY

11TH JULY 2018

The Department of Geography and Research Center, Parvatibai Chowgule College, Margao, on Wednesday, 11th July, 2018, observed the World Population Day. Every year on this day the faculty and students gather and observe the day. This year the theme is "Family Planning is a Human Right." The Department of Geography this year decided to observe this day along with other college students from the State.

The hosts for the day, Ms. Radhika Raikar and Ms. Sarina Bagali (MA Geography Students) welcomed the gathering and gave a brief introduction about the day. Dr. Nandkumar Sawant, Principal of the college was the Chief Guest and he delivered a special lecture related to the theme. He highlighted on the empowerment of women and reducing poverty in developing nations. To mark the day, a short documentary on family planning was projected. Towards the end, the vote of thanks was proposed by Ms. Vijaya Patil (MA Geography Student). After the program, an inter-collegiate quiz competition was held where students from other colleges participated. The quiz was hosted by Mr. Dwayne Fernandes (MA Geography Student). The theme of the quiz was based on Population of India with special reference to Goa based on aspects like migration, population distribution and growth.

The team from Government College Khandola, emerged First Prize Winners, while Government College Sanquelim and Shree Mallikarjun College, Canacona won second and third place respectively.

The World Population Day was coordinated by Mr. Adrian Ferro and Mr. Kiran P. Naik, Assistant Professors.

The second-year students of Department of Biotech of Parvatibai Chowgule college organised an Ocean themed fresher's party on 14th July in the lower auditorium. This was a team effort with both students and teachers coordinating the party. It was organised in order to get to know the freshers better. All of the SY's had a meeting and decided on the theme, the food, deco and the games to be organised, and once this was done, they decided the responsibilities amongst themselves. The third years lent a hand as well due to the hectic schedule.

On the day of the party, they met up at around 10:30 a.m. to decorate the venue with balloons, glitter and a sign saying 'Welcome, Freshers!'. The first years were welcomed with badgeswith their names written on them. During their introduction, the FYs were paired up with either an SY or a TYand had to introduce each other first(the partners) and get to know a little bit about another person.

After the introduction, the enthusiastic FYs had fun playing a game of dares conducted by the seniors. Later, they had the fish pond, and most of them received quite funny and anonymous replies. All of them bonded and got on like a house on fire. After a short break and refreshments (a slice of roll cake, muffins and pattice and sprite with lemon and salt), they continued the game of dares and fish pond messages, followed by the game of 'Bombarding the city'. The partyconcluded with an appreciation speech by their vice president. And soon after, it was 'lights out', as, musicfilled the auditorium and they all danced with only the flashlights on. So, even though, organising the party was a little hectic and a tad stressful, it was a success as everyone had the time of their lives.

FRENCH CONNECTIONS

The Second-year students of the French department of Parvatibai Chowqule Collegeorganised a fresher's party on 14th Julyto commemorate the Bastille Day (a very important day in the history of France). It was conducted in the French classroomin orderto welcome the new students to the department. Theprogramme began with the national anthem of France which was followed by various presentationsaboutFrench culture, the Bastille day andthe French department. Later, theFirst-Year students were treated to a fun quiz based off the presentations.During the programme there was also a music performance and two games which were conducted.One of the games was called "TrouveQuelque'unQui" and the other was a forfeit game.

The new students were very enthusiastic and had a great time getting to know their seniors as well as gaining knowledge about The Bastille Day.Overall, it was a fun filled, entertaining day. The fresher's party ended with everyone singing The Indian National Anthem.

fresher's month

The Department of Economics at PCCAS-A, Margao organised a Freshers' Party on the 14th of July for the new academic batch of 2018 in the upper auditorium of the college. This event saw the students coming together and interacting with each other in their own unique way. The seniors organized an interactive game involving balloons on which they wrote the names of their classmates. They swapped balloons until they found the balloon with their name on it. This fun activity presented them with plenty of time to mingle with each other. The seniors also showcased their talents by welcoming their juniors with joyous music. There were some students who were shy and they were given an opportunity to introduce themselves, to go ahead and speak up. "I'm kind of a shy person who does not talk much, but after this interaction I felt like I was free and matured", confessed Nasid Shaikh, a fresher from the department. The teachers didn't lag far behind in giving the freshers a warm welcome and they also actively participated in the event. "Debashish

Sir sang a Bengali song for us, it was pretty amazing we enjoyed a lot!", recounted Manasi Talulikar, a student of FYBA.

To make things even more interesting and in order to create new interactive sessions (and perhaps to put those poor boys in a spot!), this year the boys of the department were challenged to execute a ramp walk... with hilarious results! Furthermore, there were new 'on the spot' games, such as counting numbers in Hindi! Soon after, the refreshments followed the fun and frolic, as the freshers were served samosas, puffs and as per the custom of the department, a delicious cake was cut by the freshers as well.

The event was a success and it indeed left the new students with everlasting memories which they will fondly treasure, with new friends whom they'll cherish and also gave them their first taste of college life.

A SOCIOLOGY FRESHERS AFFAIR

The second years and the third years of the sociology department of ParvatiBai Chowgule college organised a fresher's party for the department's first years on 7th of July as an annual tradition of the department. It was held in the upper auditorium at 2p.m. and second- years, Miss Nameera and Miss Grizel played the gracious hosts. The venue was decked up beautifully and the FYswere welcomed with pretty, handmade flowers. It was evident from the décor itself, that a lot of thought and hard work had been put in to organise the freshers' party and to make them feel as welcome as possible by the senior students.

There were performances put up by the senior students and everyone indulged in party-favourite games such as Dumb Charades and Truth-or-Dare, followed by refreshments provided to all who attended. The party concluded with the Dr. Sachin Savio Moraes addressing the enthusiastic new additions to the sociology Department.

PHYSICAL AFFAIR

The seniors of the physics department of Parvati Bhai Chowgule College organised a physics freshers party for the First years on 12th July at 4p.m in the lower auditorium. The juniors enthusiastically streamed into the auditorium where they were welcomed by the seniors who had an evening of fun and games in store for them.

To start things off, the H.O.D, Mr. Yatin Dessai addressed the crowd. His speech was met with applause from all. Introductions were in order, since all the students were just getting to know each other and hence, the juniors introduced themselves to the seniors as well as to the teachers and vice versa. After the introductions, the games began and everyone enthusiastically partook in them. To further sweeten the pot, the winners of the games were titled as Mister and Miss Freshers. The seniors also put up performances for the FY's. This thoroughly enjoyable affair concluded at around 5:30 p.m, with everyone gathering around for a group photo with their newfound friends.

कव्यवाचन सोहळा

Title:	श्रावणधारा
Date and year:	६ सप्टेंबर २०१८
Venue:	सभगृह
Resource person/s:	द. वा. तळवणेकर
Organising Committee	मराठी विभाग
No. of Participants
Objective:	 विद्यार्थ्यांचा संस्कृतीशी अनुबंध जुळावा. कविता या विषयाची गोडी लागावी.
Summary of the proceedings	गेले ३० वर्षे श्रावण महिन्यामध्ये 'श्रावणधारा' या कवी कविसंमेलनाचे, मराठी विभागातर्फे आयोजन करण्यात येते. यावर्षी दिनांक 6 सप्टेंबर रोजी महाविद्यालयाच्या सभागृहात हा कार्यक्रम उत्साहामध्ये संपन्न झाला. विभागातील काव्यलेखन करणाऱ्या माजी विद्यार्थ्यांचा सहभाग हे या कार्यक्रमाचे प्रमुख आकर्षण होते. व्यासपीठावर प्रमुख पाहुणे म्हणून जेष्ठ कवी द. वा. तळवणेकर, भाषा विभागाच्या अधिष्ठाता मित्रा बोरकर, मराठी
	विभाग प्रमुख प्रा. श्रीकृष्ण अडसूळ उपस्थित होते. कविता एखाद्याच्या
	संवेदनांचे प्रतीक असून माणूस जिवंत असल्याचे एक गूढ असल्याने

प्रत्येकांनी आपल्या कवी मनाला नेहमीच जागृत ठेवावे. असे श्री. तळवणेकर
यांनी आपल्या मार्गदर्शनपर भाषणातून सांगितले.
यावेळी विद्यार्थी तसेच निमंत्रित कवींनी स्वरचित तर काहींनी सुप्रसिद्ध
कवींच्या कविता सादर केल्या. यात कृष्णा पालयेकर, शांभवी सावंत
तळवलीकर, वंदना अमरेकर, नेहा बांदेकर, मानसी पेंडसे, उर्वी उमर्ये, रविना
कुरतरकर, लालन पालयेकर, डॉ. हनुमंत चोपडेकर, डॉ. संजय गायकवाड, प्रा. प्रदीप जटाळ, प्रा. सारिका आडविलकर, वर्षा प्रभुगावकर, व अन्य कवींनी
सहभाग घेतला.
माजी विद्यार्थिनी प्रा. लालन पालयेकर, पत्रकार रविना कुरतरकर यांचा
यावेळी सत्कार करण्यात आला. तसेच राष्ट्रीय पुरस्कार विजेता कोंकणी
विभाग प्रमुख डॉ हनुमंत चोपडेकर यांचाही यावेळी सत्कार करण्यात आला.
