The objectives and description of the activity	The Department of Economics fostered a sense of community and celebration with the Millet Competition, representing the International Year of Millet in 2023. The Millet Competition was held within the department on Friday, 21st July, in class B207, with participants gathering at 2:30 pm to share their experiences and celebrate their accomplishments based on Millet's. At the beginning of the event, the faculties provided some helpful instructions to ensure that everyone could complete their dishes. It was great to have some guidance to follow, and it helped to make the event run smoothly. Two experienced faculty members judged the competition from Konkani and Marathi departments, bringing unique perspectives and insights to the event. A total of 10 participants from the economics department, along with faculty members Ma'am Rupali, Sir Ramu, and Ma'am Parvin, took part in the competition. The students made some amazing millet-based dishes, and their artistic depictions were impressive. The event was truly nice, where the student's hard work and creativity were on full display as the judges tasted and viewed the presentation of each dish.

Feedback
Benefit/key outcome of the event in terms of Learning/skills/knowledge	Celebrating millet competition aims to spread awareness about the nutritional values millets contain and their value in our daily life and to "represent the International Year of Millet in 2023 ". Also, in 2013 it was declared as "the international year of Quinoa" by the UN, and during this year, researchers saw an increase in the demand for "Quinoa" in 2013 which benefited the farmer known in India as Amaranth / Rajgira. There were assumptions that the same would happen if they announced " 2023 as international millets years."
